Solidarity: Journal of Catholic Social Teaching and Secular Ethics

Call for Papers: Inaugural Student and ECR Edition & Publishing Prize

Solidarity Journal is an open-access, peer-reviewed Journal that aims to be a forum for interdisciplinary scholarly work situated within or examining two traditions of ethical thought about society: Catholic social teaching, and modern secular ethical reflection. The Journal is a joint venture of The Institute for Ethics and Society at The University of Notre Dame Australia and the Office for Justice and Peace at the Catholic Archdiocese of Sydney.

Solidarity will publish its inaugural Student and Early-Career Researcher (ECR) Edition in 2019 as part of its commitment to facilitating publishing opportunities for students and emerging researchers. We invite the submission of manuscripts for this issue that fit within the broad remit of the Journal as described above. More information about the Journal can be found here: https://researchonline.nd.edu.au/solidarity/

All submitted papers will go through a double-blind peer review process, and must pass the peer review process to be included in the issue. In addition to publication in the Journal, all accepted papers will be considered for the Inaugural Solidarity Student Publishing Prize (Value: $1000) and Solidarity ECR Publishing Prize (Value: $1000).

Please send full manuscripts to the Managing Editor no later than 1st September 2019, along with a short biographical statement detailing your current enrolment or career status. We anticipate the Issue will be published in March 202.

For the purpose of this issue and the ECR Publishing Prize, an early-career researcher is considered someone within five years of the award of their PhD. Please note, although we will accept submissions for the edition from anywhere in the world, only student’s currently enrolled in an Australian institution of higher education, and Australian-based ECRs will be eligible for the Student and ECR Publishing Prizes respectively.
